

The Summer School Program in Shanghai Maritime University

Intake III, 2015

➤ Brief Introduction of Shanghai Maritime University

Shanghai Maritime University (SMU) is a multi-discipline university that encompasses such areas as engineering, management, economics, liberal arts and science, with special emphasis on shipping technology, economics and management. Chinese maritime education was originated at Shanghai and grew out of the Shipping Section of Shanghai Industrial College founded in 1909 (towards the end of the Qing Dynasty). SMU was established by the Ministry of Communications in 1959. Since 2000, SMU has been mainly administered by Shanghai Municipality and has been co-constructed by Shanghai Municipality and the Ministry of Transport.

Currently, SMU provides 45 programs leading to a Bachelor's degree, 12 programs leading to an Associate's degree. SMU has been authorized by the State to offer 75 programs leading to a Master's degree and 19 programs leading to a Doctor's degree in all 14 colleges. Currently, SMU has a full-time student population of near 20,000, of whom over 17,000 are studying for a Bachelor's degree and over 2900 for graduate programs. For decades of years, SMU is devoted to fostering qualified talents for shipping industry. SMU has provided the shipping enterprises, public institutions and government departments with over 50,000 graduates and is therefore honored as “Cradle of Qualified Shipping Personnel”.

Among all the disciplines offered by SMU, “Communications & Transport Planning & Management” is ranked as the state-level key discipline, “Communications & Transport Planning & Management” and “Industrial Economics” are ranked as the ministry-level key discipline, “International Law (Maritime Law)”, “Logistics Management & Engineering”, “Port Machinery Electronics Engineering”, and “Vehicle Application Engineering” are ranked as Shanghai Municipal level key discipline, and “Marine Engineering”, “Port and Shipping Electric Drive & Control Engineering”, “Machine Design & Theory”, and “Power Electronics & Electric Drive” are ranked as the Shanghai Municipal Education Commission Level Key Disciplines.

SMU has always attached much importance to exchange and cooperation with overseas academies, institutions and industry companies, and has established close ties with the institutions in such countries or regions as U.S.A., the Netherlands, U.K., Japan, Poland, Sweden, Hong Kong China and Chinese Taipei. More and more overseas students are coming to SMU for studies. Currently, various types of programs in SMU are open to international applicants, including Chinese language program (non-degree), university student exchange program (non-degree), undergraduate degree program, postgraduate degree program, PhD program, and some joint degree programs with other foreign universities. In year 2012, there are more than 500 international students from 40 countries or regions studying in different programs in SMU. SMU has been a Shanghai Government Scholarship university since year 2007 and Chinese Government Scholarship university since year 2012.

The international students in SMU will be provided with not only the very professional discipline teaching, but also numerous opportunities of practicing Chinese language and experiencing Chinese culture. The university will organize specially-designed activities such as Chinese kung-fu (martial arts) teaching, traditional calligraphy classes, visit to Chinese culture experimental bases, tour to famous Chinese scenic spots and historic sites, and etc. International students will no doubt have a great experience when they study here.

➤ How International Students Enjoy Their Life in SMU
